

Category: Very high risk:

- Schools can cater for remote learning for children who are “very high risk”
- Children must be medically certified as being at very high risk.
- Pupils in this category who engage with learning from home will be marked present.

Category: Pupils who have been requested to self-isolate for a short time

- From time to time, a number of pupils may be required to self-isolate for a short time.
- It is not expected that these pupils would be educated through adapted education provision during this time.
- Schools should ensure that these pupils are supported to catch up with their learning on their return to school.
